TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface ix

I The Point of Entry

Introduction 1
Chapter One. Theoretical Considerations in Conducting Multi-Generational Qualitative Research 7
Chapter Two. The Context: Complex African American Voices and Deconstruction 22

II Four Comparative Generational Periods

Chapter Three. The Generational Families 29
Chapter Four. Historical Views of Children: Generational Periods 33
- Constructed Generational Periods of African American Education 36
- First Comparative Period: The Slave to the Negro Period (Slavery to the 1930s) 38
- Second Comparative Period: The Colored American Period (1930s–1950s) 47
- Third Comparative Period: The Black American Period (1950s–1980s) 49
- Fourth Comparative Period: The African American Period (1980s–Present) 58

III Generational Voices

Chapter Five. Family Cohorts 77
- The Cook Family Cohort 77
- The Bigsby Family Cohort 81
- The Henderson Family Cohort 85
- The Georgia King Family Cohort 86

Chapter Six. Unheard Generational Voices 89
Chapter Seven. Generational Narrative Constructs 96
Chapter Eight. Generations: Voices Matter 122

Epilogue 131
References 133