Table of Contents

Series Editor's Preface ix

Part One: Transnational Protests: Approaches and Agendas

Chapter 1: Transnational Protests and the Media: An Introduction 3
Simon Cottle and Libby Lester

Chapter 2: Transnational Protests and the Media: New Departures, Challenging Debates 17
Simon Cottle

Part Two: Protesting War and Peace

Chapter 3: Scales of Activism: New Media and Transnational Connections in Anti-War Movements 41
Jenny Pickerill, Kevin Gillan and Frank Webster

Chapter 4: "Not in Our Name": British Press, the Anti-war Movement and the Iraq Crisis 2002–2009 59
Craig Murray, Piers Robinson, Peter Goddard and Katy Parry

Chapter 5: On Anti-Iraq War Protests and the Global News Sphere 74
Stephen Reese

Part Three: Protesting Economy and Trade

Chapter 6: Leaderless Crowds, Self-Organizing Publics, and Virtual Masses: The New Media Politics of Dissent 87
Andrew Rojecki

Chapter 7: Mediating and Embodying Transnational Protest: Internal and External Effects of Mass Global Justice Actions 98
Jeffrey Juris

Chapter 8: Protest and Public Relations: A New Era for Non-institutional Sources? 113
Adam Bowers

Chapter 9: Photography, the Police and Protest: Images of the G20, London 2009 129
David Archibald

Part Four: Protesting Ecology and Climate

Chapter 10: Wild Public Screens and Image Events from Seattle to China: Using Social Media to Broadcast Activism 143
Kevin Michael DeLuca, Ye Sun and Jennifer Peeples

Chapter 11: Politics, Power and Online Protest in an Age of Environmental Conflict 159
Brett Hutchins and Libby Lester

Chapter 12: Amazon Struggles in the Global Media Age: Framing and Discourses in Environmental Conflict 172
Conny Davidsen

Chapter 13: Piracy Up-Linked: Sea Shepherd and the Spectacle of Protest on the High Seas 185
David Crouch and Katarina Damjanov

Chapter 14: Climate Change and International Protest at Copenhagen: Reflections on British Television and the Web 197
Neil T. Gavin and Tom Marshall

Part Five: Protesting Human Rights and Civil Rights

Chapter 15: Open Source Protest: Human Rights, Online Activism and the Beijing 2008 Olympic Games 213
Ana Adi and Andy Miah

Chapter 16: The 2008 Tibet Riots: Competing Perspectives, Divided Group Protests and Divergent Media Narratives 225
Chen Li and Lucy Montgomery

Chapter 17: Resistanbul: An Analysis of Mediated Communication in Transnational Activism 242
Ilke Sanlier Yüksel and Murat Yüksel

Chapter 18: Political Protest and the Persian Blogosphere: The Iranian Election 255
Nazanin Ghanavizi

Chapter 19: The Global Human Rights Regime and the Internet: Non-Democratic States and the Hypervisibility of Evidence of Oppression 268
James Stanyer and Scott Davidson

Part Six: Transnational Protests and the Media: Toward Global Civil Society?

Chapter 20: Transnational Protests and the Media: Toward Global Civil Society? 287
Libby Lester and Simon Cottle

Afterword: Media and the Arab Uprisings of 2011 293
Simon Cottle

References 305
List of Contributors 333
Index 339