

EMILY BILMAN

MODERN EKPHRASIS

Table of Contents

PREFACE	1
INTRODUCTION	5
CHAPTER ONE
The Genesis of Ekphrasis	15
I. The Analogy between Poetry and Painting in Classical Antiquity	15
II. G.E. Lessing's Distinction between the Spatial and the Temporal Arts in Laocoön and Modern Literary Criticism on the Issue	23
CHAPTER TWO
The Interrelation of Modern Ekphrasis with Cognition, Perception, and Memory	35
CHAPTER THREE
Temporal Movement Captured in Marcel Duchamp's Painting and X.J. Kennedy's Poem "Nude Descending A Staircase"	45
CHAPTER FOUR
A Poet's Dialogue with a Painter on Art: A. Cronin's Poem, "Lines for a Painter" and P. Swift's "Tree in Camden Town"	53
CHAPTER FIVE
Sylvia Plath's Subjective Reactionary Ekphrasis in "The Disquieting Muses" and Giorgio de Chirico's Painting of the Same Name	63

CHAPTER SIX
Michael Hamburger's Poem, "A Painter Painted"
and Lucien Freud's "Francis Bacon"	77
CHAPTER SEVEN
The Spatio-Temporal Dimension of Literary Iconicity
in W.C. Williams' "The Pot of Flowers"
and Charles Demuth's "Tuberoses"	87
CHAPTER EIGHT
A Semiotic Comparison between Linguistic and Pictorial Signs	105
CHAPTER NINE
The Sign-Thing Interaction in Howard Nemerov's Poem
"The Painter Dreaming in the Scholar's House",
Paul Klee's "Mountain Flora" and
Anton Ehrenzweig's "Unconscious Scanning"	113
CHAPTER TEN
The Seeds of Post-Modernism: Jacques Derrida,
Frank Stella and John Ashbery's "The Painter"	131
CONCLUSION	145
BIBLIOGRAPHY	167