

Gerald Florian Messner

Do They Sound Like Bells or Like Howling Wolves?

Interferential Diaphony in Bistrítsa

VERGLEICHENDE
MUSIKWISSENSCHAFT

PL ACADEMIC RESEARCH

Inhalt

| | |
|---|-----------|
| 1. PART ONE | 11 |
| 1.1 Acknowledgement | 11 |
| 1.2 Foreword to the English edition of this study | 12 |
| 1.3 Introduction | 14 |
| 1.3.1 Analytic methodology | 16 |
| 1.3.2 Abbreviations and translation of technical terms | 19 |
| 1.4 Prehistoric, general historical and ethnogenetic survey of the Balkans, and in particular of Bulgaria | 24 |
| 1.5 The Bulgarian folklore districts | 29 |
| 1.5.1 The dissemination of polyphony in Bulgaria | 30 |
| 1.6 The Šops, the village of Bistritsa and legends of origin according to Otets (father) Dragomir | 34 |
| 1.7 Notes on field research | 37 |
| 1.7.1 A different aesthetic appreciation of sound characteristics and intervals according to the women | 40 |
| 1.7.2 The function of the parts and their socio-cultural implications ... | 42 |
| 1.7.3 Learning processes and tradition | 47 |
| 1.7.4 The performers | 52 |
| 1.7.5 Songs and texts in the order they were recorded | 53 |
| 1.8 Structure, additive and phenomenological analysis of the recorded multi-part song material | 57 |
| 1.8.1 The functions and their aspects | 59 |
| 1.8.2 Structure, phonetic peculiarities, melodic line, part singing structure and socio-cultural embedding | 61 |
| 1.8.3 Structuring the vocal parts and the definition of the term Interferential Diaphony (Schwebungsdiaphonie) | 64 |

| | |
|---|-----------|
| 1.8.4 The interpretation of the sonograms with particular reference to the special characteristics of the performance of these songs | 67 |
| 1.8.4.1 Voice production | 67 |
| 1.8.4.2 Vocal entry, initial signal tone and exclamations | 68 |
| 1.8.4.3 The vocal entry of the actual song, the quasi stationary spectrum and the vocal ending | 71 |
| 1.8.4.4 The sonogram of some practice sessions | 72 |
| 1.8.4.5 The “Okane” | 73 |
| 1.8.4.6 The micro-modulatory processes and the embellishments | 74 |
| 1.8.4.7 Micro-intervals | 75 |
| 1.8.5 Text and music | 77 |
| 1.8.5.1 Repetitive rhetorical figures | 77 |
| 1.8.5.1.1 Summary of the repetitive figures as extension | 84 |
| 1.8.5.1.2 The occurrence of the three repetitive rhetorical figures | 84 |
| 1.8.5.1.3 Refrain formation | 85 |
| 1.8.6 Antiphony as a style specific criterion | 88 |
| 1.8.6.1 The musical entry | 88 |
| 1.8.6.2 Overlapping | 89 |
| 1.8.7 Metro-rhythm and tempo | 89 |
| | |
| 2. PART TWO | 97 |
| 2.1 Transcription with the aid of sonagraphy | 97 |
| 2.1.1 The problem at hand | 97 |
| 2.1.2 The transcription procedure and system of notation | 103 |
| 2.1.2.1 The fine transcription | 113 |
| 2.1.2.2 The coarse transcription | 117 |
| 2.1.3 The diacritical transcription signs and symbols | 118 |
| 2.1.3.1 Embellishment signs in the coarse and fine transcriptions | 119 |
| | |
| 2.2 Analytical differentiation | 119 |
| 2.2.1 Signs and symbols used | 120 |
| 2.2.2 Tables of analysis | 122 |
| 2.2.3 Postscriptum to the analytical differentiation | 196 |

| | |
|---|-----|
| 3. PART THREE | 197 |
| 3.1 Synthesis | 197 |
| 3.1.1 Socio-cultural factors and pre-Christian, magico-religious symbolic ideas | 197 |
| 3.1.2 Psychoacoustic and audio-physiological phenomena | 197 |
| 3.1.3 Vocal entry, quasi stationary spectrum, tone ending | 198 |
| 3.1.4 Significance of mythological references in some texts | 198 |
| 3.1.5 The two different musical systems in Bistritsa | 200 |
| 3.1.6 The form types of songs | 204 |
| 3.1.7 Structure in the synopsis according to their criteria for differentiation and the order in which they appear in the analytical tables | 206 |
| 3.2 Reflections and conclusion | 213 |
| 3.2.1 Comments on the problem of Interferential Diaphony outside Bulgaria | 213 |
| 3.2.1.1 Jaap Kunst and his controversial article | 214 |
| 3.2.1.2 The phenomenon of Interferential Diaphony outside Bulgaria | 218 |
| 3.2.1.3 Song samples from areas outside of Bulgaria | 222 |
| 3.2.1.4 Questions, hypotheses, theories and suggestions from the past to the present | 224 |
| 3.2.1.4.1 Interferential Diaphony in medieval Lombardia | 228 |
| 3.2.1.5 The literature on Interferential Diaphony | 237 |
| 3.2.1.6 Final Remarks | 239 |
| 3.2.2 References | 240 |
| 4. APPENDIX 1 | 255 |
| 4.1 Some lyrics of the songs from Bistritsa | 255 |
| 4.2 Summary tables I-V | 261 |
| 4.3 Sonograms and transcriptions of the Bulgarian material | 266 |
| 4.4 Sonograms and transcriptions of samples outside Bulgaria | 345 |

| | |
|--|------------|
| APPENDIX 2 | 356 |
| 4.5 Article 1: “The Two-Part Vocal Style on Baluan Island, Manus Province, Papua New Guinea”. Reprint from Ethnomusicology XXV/3, 1981: 433-466 | 356 |
| 4.6 Article 2: “Jaap Kunst Revisited. Multipart Singing in Three East Florinese Villages Fifty Years Later: A Preliminary Investigation”. Reprint from The World of Music XXXI/2, 1989: 3-48 | 370 |
| 4.7 Some Prelusive Remarks | 416 |
| 4.8 Content of the CD | 417 |