

Anna Witeska-Młynarczyk

Evoking Polish Memory

State, Self and the Communist Past in Transition

PETER LANG
EDITION

Contents

Acknowledgements	7
Preface	11
Notes on Transcription	17
Introduction	19
Chapter One Hidden Dialogicality: personal memory, expert knowledge, historical policy, and pedagogy of patriotism	57
Chapter Two The Mediating Role of the State in a Social Practice of Acquiring a Hero/Victim Subject Position	75
Chapter Three Religious Framework for Embodied Mutual Orientation: a hero/victim experience situated in the Catholic Church	93
Chapter Four The Archbishop is not the Church! Talk in the Association as a collaborative moral action	111
Chapter Five The Space of Ambiguity: between the collectively enacted frames and the experience of the self in time	127
Chapter Six Between Acknowledgement and Erasure: social dynamics behind the production of political identities materialized in the public space	153
Chapter Seven The Factory of Pathologies: collectivized imageries about the former security officers under the democratic state	173
Chapter Eight Excavating Memories of Political Violence in a ‘Lawful’ State: a case-study of a security officer’s trial	189
Chapter Nine Resolving Disorientation through Narrative: two case-studies	209
Conclusion	235
Bibliography	241