

CONSTANTIN FLOROS

Gustav Mahler
and the Symphony
of the 19th Century

Translated by Neil K. Moran

Table of Contents

Introduction	1
--------------------	---

First Part

Basics of the Symphony

I	Mahler's place in history.....	5
	1. Eclectic or original genius?	5
	2. Bruckner-Successor or Bruckner-Antipode?	7
II	Beethoven and the new categories of symphonic music	13
III	The history of the reception of Beethoven's music	15
IV	Mahler's conception of the symphonic cantata	19
V	Borrowings from the Lieder repertoire	25
	1. Schubert, Mendelssohn and Brahms.....	25
	2. Mahler's intentions with his borrowings	27
VI	Aspects of architectonics	31
	1. Varying number of movements and their arrangements – sectional structuring	31
	2. From Beethoven's Pastoral and Berlioz' Fantastique to Mahler's Titan Some programmatic symphonies in five movements	34
VII	Content and Form The "axis" of the new aesthetics	37
VIII	The cyclic form principle and the programmatic idea	41
	Beethoven – Schubert and Schumann – Berlioz – Liszt – The correlation between music and program in Liszt's Les Préludes	47
	Bruckner – Tchaikovsky – Mahler	50
	"Flashbacks": Six examples from the symphonies of Beethoven, Berlioz, Bruckner and Mahler	54

IX	Musical themes and the “poetical conception”	57
	1. The alteration and ornamentation of thematic characteristics as a means of expression in Berlioz, Liszt and Mahler	57
	2. Simultaneous reduplication of contrasting themes as a means of expression in Berlioz, Liszt, Bruckner and Mahler	59
X	The Mephisto movement of Liszt’s Faust Symphony
	A semantic analysis	65
	1. The themes and Liszt’s method of ornamentation	66
	2. The Malédiction for piano and string orchestra as a source for the Mephisto movement	69
	3. The curse as a central idea of the Mephisto movement	71
	4. Liszt’s setting of the Chorus mysticus	72

Part Two

The Universality of the Symphony

XI	Characteristics in general	77
	1. Fundamentals	77
	2. Regarding Adorno’s conception of the “material theory of form in music”	79
XII	Characteristics derived from vocal music	81
	1. Speaking parts: Recitative and Arioso	81
	2. The Chorale Regarding the meaning of genres in the symphonies of Berlioz, Mendelssohn, Liszt, Bruckner, Brahms and Mahler	85
	3. The Hymn The hymn in Bruckner and Mahler as well as in Beethoven, Schubert and Brahms	96
	4. Lieder	99
XIII	Characteristics derived from instrumental music	103
	1. March (marziale) and funeral march The meaning of the category in the symphonies of Berlioz, Liszt, Bruckner and Mahler	103
	2. Entombment music: “ like a very slow funeral procession ”	109
	3. Pastorale

	The genre in Beethoven, Berlioz, Mendelssohn, Liszt, Bizet, Brahms and Mahler	111
4.	“Music from afar” Orchestra in the distance or illusion of an orchestra in the distance.....	118
5.	Crescendo (and diminuendo) as sounds dynamics expressing musical form March music from afar, gradually coming closer Nine examples in works of Mozart, Beethoven, Berlioz, Wagner, Bizet, Mahler and Debussy	124
XIV	Scherzo, scherzando and dance characteristics.....	129
1.	Fundamentals	129
2.	Minuet The genre in Mahler, Bizet and Liszt	133
3.	Ländler Two types used by Mahler: The “leisurely” Ländler as main movement and the “ slow ” Ländler as the trio – Ländler of Schubert and Bruckner	135
4.	Waltz and Valse	138
XV	Conclusions	141
	Structure of the opening movement of Mahler’s Third Symphony Analysis in accordance with the characteristics.....	143

Third Part

Elements of the Symphonies

XVI	The symbol in music	147
1.	Explanation of the concept.....	148
2.	Schering’s conception of the symbol.....	150
3.	Techniques for solving the problem (heuristic).....	153
XVII	The semantics of the sounds of birds.....	155
1.	Birdcalls and sounds as the “sounds of nature”	155
2.	Mahler and the birdcalls in Beethoven’s “ Scene at the brook ”	157
3.	Mahler and birdcalls in Wagner’s “ Forest murmurs ”	158
4.	The “bird of the night”	160
5.	The “bird of death” The song of the nightingale as the “echo of earthly life”	161

5.	Bird cantilenas, duets and concerts.....	163
XVIII	Elementary Motifs.....	165
1.	Calls and signals.....	166
2.	Sighing motifs Plaintive cries, woes, motifs of suffering, “screams”	167
XIX	Motifs of falling and symbols of the abyss.....	171
XX	Symbols of night and of sleep.....	173
XXI	Satanism and the Crucifix The polarity of the spiritual world in the music of Franz Liszt.....	177
1.	Liszt’s attraction to Goethe’s Faust and for Dante’s Divine Comedy	178
2.	The polarity between calamity and victory.....	180
3.	The diabolus in musica and the “tonal symbol of the Cross” The semantics of the most important symbols in the music of Liszt.....	185
XXII	“Dall’ Inferno al Paradiso ” Theological-philosophical motifs	191
1.	Regarding a fundamental philosophical-poetical idea in the symphonies of Liszt and Mahler.....	191
2.	Inferno and Lucifer motifs in Liszt, Tchaikovsky and Mahler.....	193
3.	The “ tonal symbol of the cross ” as a representation of the “ heavenly ” in Wagner, Mahler, Bruckner and Tchaikovsky.....	199
4.	Motifs for “eternity” in Wagner and Mahler	201
XXIII	La Gamme terrifiante The history of the whole tone scale	203
XXIV	Rhythmic Leitmotifs Symbols of death, fate and combat.....	207
	Beethoven – Liszt – Wagner and Bruckner – Strauss – Tchaikovsky – Mahler	207
XXV	Guiding sounds (Leitklänge) Characteristic chords and symbols.....	219
1.	An “eerie” minor third chord as a tonal symbol in Wagner, Liszt, Mahler and Strauss.....	220

2. Major-minor motivic shifts in Schubert, Mahler, Strauss and Brahms.....	224
3. The “ terrifying fanfare ” in Beethoven’s Ninth and in Mahler’s Second	225
4. Four note chords as mottos	227
5. Neapolitan sixth chords and dissonances at climaxes in Mahler, Schubert and Strauss Neapolitan Sixth and Fifth-Sixth Chords – Diminished Seventh Chords – ‘Minor’ Ninth Chords – Double Leading Tone Sounds and Double Dominant Sounds – Thirteenth Chords	229
6. The shape of Bruckner’s climaxes	234
7. The nine-tone sound in the Adagio of Mahler’s Tenth.....	236
8. Regarding the technique of imprévu A “ frightening note ” in Beethoven, Berlioz, Bruckner and Mahler	237
XXVI Idiophonic sound symbols	239
1. Regarding sound symbols generally	239
2. The tamtam as a funereal and macabre sound symbol in Mahler, Wagner, Liszt, Strauss, Tchaikovsky, Schönberg and Berg	240
3. Bell sounds in Berlioz, Liszt and Strauss	245
4. Bell sounds as a sound symbol for the eternal in Mahler	246
5. The symbolic and coloring functions of the Glockenspiel The Glockenspiel as an essential sound for the musica angelica	248
6. Cow bells as a sound symbol for the “ otherworldly solitude ”	249
Epilogue	251
Abbreviations	253
Notes.....	255
Selected Bibliography	291
List of Tables	311
Tables	315
Index	395