

The Boys Club

Male Protagonists in Contemporary African American Young Adult Literature

WENDY ROUNTREE

Contents

	Acknowledgments	vii
	Introduction	1
Chapter 1	Defining Manhood: The Function of Violence in Kenji Jasper's dark and Sharon G. Flake's Bang!	15
Chapter 2	Where Have All the Fathers Gone?: Searching for Identity in Jacqueline Woodson's Miracle's Boys	35
Chapter 3	It's in the Way You Play the Game: African American Boys and Basketball in William McDaniels' Abdul and the Designer Tennis Shoes and Walter Dean Myers' Game	43
Chapter 4	Are You Gonna Teach Me Something?: African American Boys and the Classroom in Candy Dawson Boyd's Chevrolet Saturdays	65
Chapter 5	Depicting Romantic Relationships in Walter Dean Myers' Motown and Didi and Jacqueline Woodson's If You Come Softly	77
Chapter 6	Looking Back, Looking Forward: The Role of the Past In Christopher Paul Curtis' Bud, Not Buddy and Kekla Magoon's The Rock and the River	93
	Conclusion	117
	Notes	119
	Works Cited	127
	Index	131