

Contents

Preface by Juri Mykkänen .....	xi
Acknowledgements.....	xv
Introduction.....	1
1: Theory as ‘Hegemonic’ Practice .....	15
Constructing multivocality .....	23
The ‘imagined community’ .....	27
Bridging .....	31
2: The Postcolonial Soviet .....	37
Disputing othering .....	43
The opposition .....	48
Debating decommunization.....	52
3: ‘Researching’ Methods.....	61
Interviews, visuals, texts.....	68
Textual and narrative analysis.....	74
4: The Poster – Roots of the Lenin cult.....	79
Methodology of the poster .....	81
The leaders cult .....	86
Historical memory .....	90
5: Art of the Protest.....	95
Messages of the revolution.....	100
The “Strike Poster” – “Страйк Плакат” .....	104
Posters and the state.....	112
Romanticization + realism.....	118
Birth of dialogism? .....	121

6: Meanings of Lenin.....	127
The 'Leninfall' – original multivocality .....	129
Creative remembering .....	137
The Lenin camouflage.....	145
7: Filling the 'Pedestal' .....	153
Bandera and the nationalist discourse.....	156
The bookshelves: mirroring decommunization .....	162
“One Hundred Years of Fighting for Independence” .....	168
The 'other,' the Ukrainian, and the state .....	176
Conclusion.....	185
References.....	195